Euphonious Seasonality is a tender reminder of just how a dance form comprises high and low beats, how a rice crop depends on the highs and lows of seasons; our life encompasses such highs and lows that make us appreciate it even more.

The relevance it holds to South Asian Heritage Month is that it celebrates the classical dance along with the food that holds such importance in our culture. The rice is not just for sustenance but holds immense significance in rituals and is a potent symbol of auspiciousness & prosperity.
